

Under no circumstances should cellular telephones be allowed use on airline flights. As a frequent business traveler, I can't imagine being forced to listen to all of the people around me have conversations on their cell phones. It is bad enough that I have to listen to these conversations in the grocery store, on the street or in the Metro, please don't take away my one quiet sanctuary!

Please consider those of us who enjoy our flying time as a quiet, restful time away from outside noises.
